INTRODUCTION

The Bible is a Lamp to our feet and a light to our pathway. To know it thoroughly is to be kept from stumbling and to walk in the light is fellowship with Him who is the heart of the Book.

The Bible is a Rock; to be familiar with its pages is to be established in character, in hope and in faith, and while we may sometime tremble the rock is immovable. The Bible is the true water of life. Mr. Moody used to say that it comes down from on high and rises again in mighty power to the throne on the principle that water seeks its own level. To know the Bible is therefore to live a heavenly life and to be filled with all the fullness of the spirit of Christ.

The Author of this Text Book knows his Bible thoroughly and he has the God-given ability of making it plain to others. What is here presented he has worked out in the Class-room and in his own rich Christian experience. I count it a privilege to write this line of introduction. The members of the Young People's Societies in the Churches, Christian Associations, Bible Study Classes and Christian Workers generally will find it most helpful. A busy business man by means of it could think his way through much of God's Word. It is a timely presentation of a great subject. I am sure that God will bless it richly to all who attempt to study it.

J. WILBUR CHAPMAN.

PREFACE

1. THE PURPOSE.

This book is designed to be used in Bible Study Classes in churches and communities, and in academies and colleges. The author has endeavored to furnish a text book of outlines and questions that shall unfold the general contents of the Word of God. Its primary aim is to impart a swift and comprehensive acquaintanceship with the material of the books of the Bible.

2. THE CHARACTER OF THE WORK.

It is not an exhaustive study. From its aim it could not be such. Some of the sixty-six books are passed over in brief space, and some (chiefly in the prophecies and epistles) are omitted altogether. It is a surface study. The title so suggests. It does not enter into the deeper things. It simply aims to lay bare the surface facts. It is expressly designed to serve as a foundation for later detailed searching of the Word. It is flexible. The teacher can add or subtract as time or local conditions demand and is earnestly exhorted so to do. One book may be omitted and another added at the teacher's discretion. A part of the questions may be omitted, or additional ones inserted. The outlines may be enlarged or diminished or changed to suit the needs of the class according to the teacher's personal judgment.

3. REQUISITES FOR STUDY.

Let each scholar be provided with a cheap tablet, a well bound blank book of 200 pages, a small Bible

Dictionary of recognized merit, and a copy of the American Revised Version of the Bible. (Standard Edition of Nelson and Sons, 1901, Bourgeois 8 vo. is good.) The teacher should provide for reference, to which the pupils should have constant access, a copy of the Rand McNally Bible Atlas, by J. L. Hurlbut, D. D., a copy of Young's Complete Analytical Concordance, and a copy of a large and complete Bible Dictionary.

4. SUGGESTIONS TO TEACHERS.

To secure the best results the following plan, tested by experience, is suggested: Let the assigned lesson be wrought out and recorded by the pupil in the cheap tablet. At the next recitation let this recorded lesson be read and corrected. At the following recitation this lesson first assigned and corrected is to be recited from memory. So at each recitation the following will be the general order: (1) The assigning of the advance lesson. (2) The reading and correction of the lesson assigned at the previous recitation. (3) The reciting from memory of the lesson corrected at the previous recitation.

The work as soon as corrected is to be recorded by the scholar in the blank book according to a simple set of rules. The following rules have been used with good results:—

DIRECTIONS FOR BIBLE BOOKS.

1. Record each lesson the evening after its correction. (Commit the work, as you record, for recital.)
2. Begin each large division at the top of the page.
3. Capitalize and underline all headings.
4. Leave a vacant line between small divisions.

5. Where questions are used, record both questions and answers.
6. The books will be graded substantially as follows:

Correctness of record, 35. (Includes spelling and grammar.) *

Fullness of record, 35.

Neatness and care, 10.

Mechanical accuracy, 10.

Originality, 10.

It would be well to place a printed copy of these rules in the hands of each student, to be pasted in the front of the blank book.—These blank books should be examined and graded every four or six weeks and should constitute at least a third of the student's grade.—The recording of the work in the blank books may be omitted in the community or church classes at the option of the teacher. But the record of the work by pencil in a cheap tablet should be insisted upon as absolutely necessary for the best results. In the academy and college classes the painstaking record in ink has been found by experience to be a most valuable portion of the study.

Let the teacher review constantly.—Drill the students, singly and collectively, in the matter to be recited.—Emphasize the avoidance of mechanical study.—Secure as much consecutive reading of the Word as possible.—Feed upon rich truths.—Make practical and personal applications of the Word.—“All Scripture is profitable.”

NOTES ON THE CHART.

1. The sixty-six books are divided into ten groups according to their relation to the Kingdom. In this connection the word Kingdom is not used in any restricted or technical sense. It is used to designate the Kingdom of God instituted to redeem the race from sin, under whatever form manifested.

2. Several of the books are not located in their exact places. Esther is located in Division Six because it is Captivity narrative. The Kings and Chronicles technically overlap two divisions. Lamentations and Jeremiah chronologically belong to the preceding division but are placed among the books of the Captivity because their wails betoken that event.

3. The books in each division are arranged in chronological order. In Division Nine the fourteen epistles of Paul are placed first in the order of their composition, then the seven general epistles in the order of their writing.

4. Where the books of a division are separated into two groups by a dash, those above the dash are historical, those beneath the dash are biographical, or poetical, or legal, or prophetic, or epistolary.

5. The teacher may exercise his own judgment in requiring the committal of this chart at the start, or part by part as the study proceeds.

NOTES ON HISTORICAL OUTLINE AND ITS USE.

Most of the books in the first four divisions will be studied with this outline as a basis. In the pursuance of these lessons the numbers left vacant in the outline are to be wrought out by the pupils. In recording the work in the blank book the first page is to be given to the pictorial device. One or two of these will be printed in their appropriate places. The others will be described, the students drawing them. Urge the pupils to use originality of thought and pen in producing them. The aim of the device is to impress by a simple picture the contents of the book as a whole. Under No. 2 the kind of literature may be described as history, law, discourse, biography, etc. Secure answers to Nos. 2, 3, 4, 5 in Bible Dictionary. As a rule Nos. 7, 8, 9, 11, 12 will be given. Under No. 10 part of the chapters will be named, and part are to be read and named by the pupils. After the pupils present the names of these chapters in class, one must be agreed upon, so that the names will be uniform. When the names of chapters are given in the outline, require the pupils to glance over the chapters and verify them. Under No. 13 the prophecies of Christ are given so as to manifest Him as the living center of the Book. Only the leading ones are selected. The teacher or pupil may add others. For convenience sake they are classified as follows: (a) Symbol; (b) Type; (c) Prophecy. Though the words symbol and type are not technically distinct we have agreed to use the word symbol to designate an object or animal that prefigures Christ, as "star" or "lamb," and the word type to designate a person that prefigures Christ, as Melchizedek or Moses. We have also agreed to limit the symbols and types to those directly or indirectly mentioned in the New Testament. The word prophecy in the outline is confined then to facts foretold regarding Christ.

In assigning the questions on each book of the Bible let the teacher go over them with the class, seeking their knowledge (or imparting it) as to the chapters in which the answers may be found.

PSALMS

DEVICE: THE BOOK OF THE HEART

I. The Collection and Divisions.

In all probability, the book of one hundred and fifty psalms, as it now stands, was compiled by Ezra about 450 B. C.

They are divided into five books, each closing with a benediction, evidently added to mark the end of the book. Note the number of psalms in Books 1 and 2.

II. The Purposes.

1. They were originally used as songs in the Jewish Temple Worship.

2. For centuries after Christ they formed the only Christian Hymnal.

3. They have comforted and supported the troubled hearts of all believers in all ages.

III. General Characteristics.

1. They are personal. Number the first personal pronouns in Ps. 23. Note the frequent occurrence in others.

2. They are the expression of heart experiences. Note the frequent use of the words heart and soul. These Hebrew poems are largely the diaries of the inner life.

3. They express the intimate relation between God and man. Note in psalms 23, 103, 139 how many the phrases which contain pronouns and words referring to both God and man.

IV. Specific Characteristics.

NOTE: Select a sentence from any psalm, illustrating each characteristic, and record the same in its appropriate place, giving the chapter and verse.

I. Author.

II. Names: (1) Song of Solomon.

(2) Song of Songs.

(3) Canticles.

Give the meaning of each.

III. General Description.

It is probably an allegorical drama. It pictures the love of Solomon to a princess, typifying, as many believe, the love of Christ to the Church. Read Ephesians 5 and be prepared to answer questions thereon. Richard Moulton describes it as containing seven idyllic poems.

IV. Words of Explanation.

1. Its Oriental tinge must be remembered. In the Occident uncovered breasts would be an impropriety, but not in the Orient.

2. The revised version removes some questionable utterances. Compare in the two versions 1:13 and 5:14.

3. Were we less sensual we could better appreciate its beauty. The beautiful in art is greatly lost by the impurity of our fleshly nature. So the beautiful in this poem.

4. It is a poem, hence the author uses the poetic license.

5. The poem needs a division into its parts, and a naming of parts, places and speakers, for a clearer understanding. Students of the poem have made this division. The following is a sample:

1. Antechamber of Palace.—Bride and Ladies.—Welcome to Home.—1:2 to 1:8.

2. Audience Room of Palace.—Bride: Groom: Attendants.—First Interview.—1:9 to 2:6.
